

Bang for Your Buck: Small Budget Home Remodels With Luxury Appeal

Remodeling a home is something that many people want to do but think is too expensive to get done the way they want. We are here to bust this myth by proving to you the many home remodeling projects you can take on with a smaller budget. Whether it's a specific room in the home or the overall look of the house, home remodeling projects can be done on any budget.

Small Changes

Believe it or not, you can make a big difference in your home by just making some small changes. One of the easiest, and non-committal, changes to make is the paint in your home. A fresh coat of paint can change the dynamic of a room and make it look new again. Another small fix is to change out the light fixtures in your home, which can even be a statement piece in the room if you would like. ### Flea Market Flips

Though furniture can be a pricey change in your home, many people are choosing to make their own “flea market flips” to add unique and refreshed pieces to their décor. This can be as easy as repainting an old dresser you find at a flea market to reupholstering a chair that will add new and unique seating. Those who can do it themselves can make these changes at an affordable price, and though it is not changing the actual building of the home, new furniture can make a powerful difference.

Prioritize Projects

Sometimes when you are doing home remodeling projects, you may only have the budget to do one of your plans. When that is the case, choose the item that will make the biggest impact on your home. This can be choosing one large project or smaller pieces of many different projects. You may choose to just update your cabinets and countertops in your kitchen as well as tile in your bathroom rather than do a full remodel of one of the rooms so your home remodeling is spread to different rooms.

Landscaping

When you are looking at the exterior of a home, the landscaping can make a large difference in home remodeling. You can choose to hire a company if you don't have a green thumb, but many projects can be done yourself, such as planting new flowers and trimming overgrown bushes.

We are here to prove that home remodeling doesn't have to be done with a full budget. You can make small changes along the way to make sure they fit in your budget, and these small changes will add up to give your home a whole new look and feel. Breaking up projects into smaller tasks and making easy changes goes a long way, but we invite you to come up with a list of these changes you can make to see for yourself what it can do for your home.
